Your day-by-day moments diary

Mark an X in the row for any day you have a headache, migraine, menstruation, or take an AJOVY injection.

* Migraine is defined by headache attacks lasting 4–72 hours (when untreated or unsuccessfully treated) and may be one-sided in location, pulsating, moderate or severe in pain intensity, aggravated by or causing avoidance of routine physical activity. Nausea and/or vomiting, sensitivity to light and sound are commonly experienced during a migraine attack.¹

You may wish to include any medications you have taken.
